OFFICE OF THE COMMISSIONER

JANUARY 14, 1915.

HON. JOHN PURROY MITCHEL,
Mayor, City of New York,
City Hall, New York, N. Y.

SIR :

I have the honor to submit herewith the Annual Report covering the work of the Police Department during the year 1914.

STRENGTH OF FORCE

The authorized quota and the actual strength in the several ranks of the force on December 31, 1914 and 1913 were as follows :

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE

The actual strength of the force as it appears in the above, in comparison with the authorized quota, shows an excess of Lieutenants and a deficiency in Sergeants. This apparent discrepancy is due to the fact that the quota in the two ranks was changed during the year by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, on request of the Police Commissioner, from 580 Lieutenants and 657 Sergeants to 524 Lieutenants and 726 Sergeants, respectively.

During the year changes in the force have occurred as follows :

POLICE DEPARTMENT

ANNUAL EXPENDITURES

The expense of conducting the Department for the year, exclusive of corporate stock expenditures and interest charges on permanent capital investments, was $17,996,038.90. In addition, $39,801.60 was paid for rentals out of other appropriations. This shows an increase of about $660,000 over the expenditures for 1913. This increase was due to an increased pay-roll charge through an increase in force made during the year 1913 of 454 men, who, however, were on the rolls during that year for approximately only one-third of the year; to mandatory salary increases, and to increases in pension charges. The expenditures for maintenance, supplies and equipment were less than the expenditures for these purposes in 1913.

The cost of conducting the Department, exclusive of pensions, per capita of population for the past five years has been :

1911	2.947
1912	2.861
1913	2.791
1914	2.777

The per capita cost of pensions during the same period was :

1910	$0.364
1911	.377
1912	.408
1913	.434
1914	.445

ADMINISTRATION

Some of the principal changes in administrative methods during the year have been : consideration of police problems and methods at the weekly conferences with the Inspectors ; utilization of the knowledge and experience of commanding officers by referring to Committees of Inspectors specific problems of administration or procedure ; giving opportunity to every man on the force to confer with the head of the department concerning any grievance or other matter which he might care to lay before the Police Commissioner ; introduction of suspended sentence and probation in the less serious cases for delinquent members of the force ; extending the authority of the Chief Inspector as head of the uniformed force.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE

Aside from the routine administrative work of the Department, much attention has been given to the development of methods and procedure by which a more effective administrative control may be obtained. Revised methods of recording and reporting complaints, police action on complaints and arrests have already been put into effect. The methods of reporting in the Detective Bureau have been improved. Other changes, both in police procedure and in the accounting and purchasing methods, have been made.

There are many problems of administration which it has not been possible to take up, or to which the thorough attention their importance required could not be given. The volume of current work is such that administrative officials have too little time for consideration of new problems or for actual field work in checking up the manner in which work is being carried out by subordinates. In this connection, attention is called to the low cost of administration in proportion to the total expenditures of the Department. Including police officers detailed to Headquarters, the total salary cost for administration, including all clerical help, in 1914, was approximately $340,000 or less than 2% of the total cost of the department. Provision has been made in the appropriations for 1915 for additional administrative and clerical force, but to meet this need adequately provision should be made for additional civilian aides to the Police Commissioner.

CRIME STATISTICS

No statistics of crimes reported to the police are included in this report, for the reason that after a very careful inquiry into the methods of compiling these statistics in the past the conclusion was reached that except in isolated cases the figures were so incomplete and inaccurate as to be misleading. Steps were taken to correct this condition, but as a considerable portion of the year had already elapsed it was impossible to get complete and accurate statistics, even for the year 1914. The new system of reporting mentioned in the foregoing section went into effect on January 1, 1915, and for the first time in the history of the Department it will be possible at the end of the year to present a complete record of crimes reported to the police, and an accurate statement of the police action taken with respect to the crimes reported during that period. One of the fundamental defects of the method of compilation of these statistics in the past has been that police action taken on crimes reported in previous periods has been entered as police action taken on crimes reported in the current period. In the serious offenses for which the records are complete, a decrease of 10% in crimes is indicated, and an increase in arrests and convictions of 25% and 20% respectively.

POLICE DEPARTMENT

ACTIVITIES OF THE FORCE

Arrests :

The total number of persons arrested or summonsed for all causes in 1914 was 190,184, as compared with 182,011 in 1913. 180,491 cases were disposed of during the year. Of these, 134,577 were convicted, or 74.6%, against 73.7% convicted in 1913, and 71.5% in 1912.

Arrests for felonies show an increase of 22.5%, and convictions an increase of 24%. There were 6% more arrests for misdemeanors than in 1913, and 5.3% more convictions for those offenses. Arrests for juvenile delinquency decreased 9% as compared with 1913, and 19% as compared with 1912. Convictions decreased 13% and 21% respectively. The number of summonses issued during the year decreased by 1615, while the number of convictions increased by 120.

There were notable increases in the number of arrests for the following offenses :

For the sale and possession of narcotics 1950 arrests were made, as compared with 511 arrests for the same offenses in 1913 ; in 1914, 947 were convicted with 391 cases still pending ; and 256 were convicted in 1913, with 109 cases pending. Because of the importance of this work, and especially because of the close relation of the use of narcotics with other and more serious crimes, one of the Special Squads attached to the Commissioner's Office was assigned to give constant attention to this work. This squad made 625 arrests during the year. Of those arrested, 277 had previous criminal or police records. Thirty-two druggists were arrested for the alleged sale of narcotics, or for failure to keep the required records of sales. Fifteen were convicted, nine were discharged, and eight cases are pending. Five wholesale druggists were arrested for unlawful sale of narcotics, of whom four were convicted and one discharged. For the illegal possession or carrying of dangerous weapons 1723 arrests were made, an increase of 341 over the year 1913.

In 1914, 3151 arrests were made for burglary, as compared with 2364 in 1913, an increase of 33%. In the same years there were 1660 and 1234 convictions, respectively, an increase of 34%.

For grand larceny and attempted grand larceny, 5056 arrests were made in 1914, against 4219 in 1913, an increase of 20%. Convictions increased from 1276 to 1644, or 28%.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE

For felonious assault and attempted felonious assault, arrests increased from 4728 to 4912, an increase of 4%. Convictions, however, decreased 9%—from 1209 to 1104.

DETECTIVE BUREAU

Arrests by the Detective Bureau show an increase of 4317 over 1913, as follows :

CRIME	ARRESTS, 1914	ARRESTS, 1913
Felonies	12,328	9,869
Misdemeanors	19,652	17,883
Juvenile Delinquency	2,780	2,833
Witnesses	333	194
Summonses	7	4
Total	35,100	30,783

TRAFFIC REGULATION

The increase in street traffic, and particularly at places where no traffic officers were stationed, made it necessary during the year to increase the regular force assigned to traffic duty from 522 to 580. One-way traffic streets were established on Nassau, Greenwich and Washington Streets; Park Row between Mail Street and Broadway; Broadway, Brooklyn, between Roebing and Havc-meyer Streets, and Jackson Avenue, Long Island City, between Diagonal Street and Skillman Place.

In order to insure a greater degree of safety to pedestrians, car-stop safety-zones were established at a number of principal street intersections. These zones are clearly marked off by traffic stanchions, and afford a space where persons may stand while waiting for a car, or while waiting for an opportunity to cross the street after alighting from a car.

At a few important crossings, traffic signs bearing the words "Look Before Crossing" have been placed. Their use has brought about an improvement in conditions and in the control of pedestrian traffic.

In the congested sections of the city, twenty-nine blocks were set off as playground blocks. On these blocks, between the hours of 3 and 6 p. m. daily, except on Sundays, vehicular traffic is prohibited. On other streets, vehicular traffic is restricted to a speed not exceeding eight miles an hour. By the establishment of the playground blocks and the slow-traffic streets, it has been possible to provide the children in the congested sections with a greater opportunity for play, and at the same time comparative freedom from danger.

HARBOR POLICE

The work of the Harbor Police during the year was very effective. The operations of thieves along the water-front, and in the bay, have been almost entirely stopped. Seven boats are on patrol in the harbor continuously, and three other boats are held in reserve for special duty, and to be used while the regular patrol boats are undergoing repairs. Two launches were obtained during the year from the Department of Docks and Ferries, and were transferred to the Police Department by the Sinking Fund Commission.

PERSONS AIDED, MISSING PERSONS, UNIDENTIFIED DEAD

During the year, 101,348 sick and injured persons were aided by the police, and 103 rescued from drowning. Missing persons reported from outside the city numbered 1,831; of these 786 were located or returned home. Many of those reported were reported merely as missing, with no indication that they were or had been in the city. During the year, 4,035 persons living in the city were reported missing, of whom 3,240 were located or returned home. The Bureau of Unidentified Dead was established in October, 1913. During the past year, 501 cases were reported to the Bureau, and identification was made in 367 cases. Identifications are made by means of clothing marks, false teeth, dental bridge work, measurements of clothing, keys, etc. Photographs are also taken, to be used for identification after burial. Identification has been made in sixteen cases by this means.

HONOR ROLL

During the year the following officers were killed in the performance of duty:

Patrolman Edward A. Murtha, 147th Precinct, was shot and killed on February 5, 1914, while on patrol duty at Fourth and Hoyt Streets, Brooklyn. He was shot while attempting to search an Italian who was pointed out to him as carrying a revolver.

Patrolman Thomas Wynn, 155th Precinct, was shot and mortally wounded on March 6, 1914, while attempting to apprehend three men who had burglarized a drug store at 375 Tompkins Avenue, Brooklyn. He died from the effects of the wounds on March 30.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE

Acting Detective Sergeant Joseph Guarnieri was shot and instantly killed on April 2, 1914, while attempting to arrest a man for felonious assault at 301 East 97th Street.

Patrolman Michael J. Kiley, 156th Precinct, was shot and killed on May 4, 1914, while attempting to stop a man who had just killed the proprietor of a restaurant at 1043 Fulton Street, Brooklyn.

Patrolman John Mee, 276th Precinct, while on mounted patrol duty, on July 15, 1914, was struck by an automobile. His skull was fractured and he died five hours later.

Sergeant John E. Hodgins, 14th Precinct, on October 7, 1914, was struck by an Eighth Avenue trolley car, while on an automobile responding to an alarm of fire, and died the same day from the injuries received.

Patrolman Edmond Lehane, Traffic Division, on December 15, 1914, while regulating traffic at Ninth Street and Fourth Avenue, was struck by a trolley car and killed.

HONOR ROLL RELIEF FUND

There has long been felt in the Department the need for a fund from which immediate temporary relief could be given to the families and dependents of those who have been called upon to sacrifice their lives in the performance of duty. The deaths of three officers during a period of two months again emphasized this need. The fund was established immediately after the death of Detective Sergeant Guarnieri through the generosity and at the suggestion of a citizen, who provided an initial fund of $1000. Contributions were also received from other citizens. In order that the fund might be put upon a more substantial basis, plans were arranged and successfully carried out for an exhibition of athletic events, drills, etc., given by the members of the force on two days, known as Police Field Days. The results were most gratifying. The members of the force participating in the events gave a splendid exhibition, and through the liberal response of the public and of the force, $85,000 was added to the Honor Roll Relief Fund.

HEALTH OF THE FORCE

The records of the medical officers of the Department show a marked improvement with respect to the health of the force, the time lost in 1914 on account of sickness and injuries being 3.7% less than during 1913. Three hundred and fifty-six cases, resulting principally from serious injuries or major operations, representing 3.8% of those on the sick list, were responsible for 31.5% of the total time lost. The average percentage of those off duty on account of sickness or other physical disability was 2.24%, as compared with 2.33% in 1913. This compares most favorably with the percentage in the American Army, which was 2.43% for all enlisted men, and 2.29% for those serving in the United States, and with that for the London police, 2.35%.

POLICE DEPARTMENT

RETIREMENTS AND PENSIONS

Seventy-eight members of the force were retired during the year on account of disability, and forty were retired on their own applications, having completed the period of required service and being fifty-five years of age or over. In 1913, three hundred and two were retired for disability, and eighty-eight for service.

Pensions were also granted to 106 widows of police officers and to eighteen children. Pensions previously granted to four children were increased.

The annual liability of the fund was increased during the year $11,054.76, as compared with $270,963.33 the previous year. This is a decrease of 95.9%, and is more significant when it is considered that the liability added during any year means not only an increased charge for that year but for many years.

The liability of the pension fund until this year had been increasing at a very rapid rate, so much so in fact that the increase required for pensions each year represented the largest single item of increase in the department appropriations. This increase has been retarded without working any injustice to those entitled to pensions. This has been accomplished by the adoption of uniform and definite physical standards for retirement. Every officer entitled to retirement because of disability to perform proper police duty has been retired, but a rational view has been taken of the physical requirements necessary for the performance of full police work. The same degree of physical perfection required of men entering the force cannot be used as a standard for men of middle age who have had from fifteen to twenty years' service.

TRAINING SCHOOL

The work of the Training School, which was formerly called the School for Recruits, has been greatly extended. Formerly, the course for Patrolmen covered a period of thirty days. This was extended to six weeks, and was again extended to twelve weeks. No material change has been made in the curriculum. The various phases of police duty, the laws and ordinances which the police are required to enforce, court procedure and evidence, co-operation with other departments, discipline and deportment in the department, are, briefly, the subjects which are covered during the course. By the extension of the period in school to twelve weeks, it is possible to go into these subjects very thoroughly, and also to give considerable time to practical field work. The young policeman to-day goes on patrol better equipped in the knowledge of his duties and authority than the older men were after several years of police duty.

The course in physical training has been increased by adding walking exercises to prevent falling of arches and flat feet, boxing, Indian club swinging and bag punching. The course formerly consisted of training in the school of the soldier, calisthenics, humane handling of prisoners, and wrestling.

In addition to the classes for Patrolmen, courses have been organized for Sergeants and Lieutenants, and for Patrolmen who desire assignment to traffic duty.

The course in traffic duty covers the laws, ordinances and regulations relating to traffic and the methods to be followed in exercising effective control by signalling, etc. Practical field work is included in the courses. At the expiration of the course, which lasts fifteen days, the men are examined and assigned to duty in accordance with their rating in the examination.

The courses for Sergeants and Lieutenants cover the duties required of officers in these two ranks. So far, only those Sergeants appointed during the year have been given the course. Heretofore, Patrolmen were promoted to the rank of Sergeant and assigned to duty without receiving any special instructions concerning their new duties. The course was provided to fill this need.

As the Lieutenants are the desk officers of the department, in the courses provided for them particular emphasis has been laid upon the departmental procedure in the matter of briefing records, recording arrests and complaints, making reports, etc., in order that methods and procedure may be uniform throughout the department.

A special continuation course for Patrolmen who have been on the force for a number of years has been organized. This course covers a period of twenty-eight days, and includes in a general way the course given to the new appointees.

PRECINCT GYMNASIUMS

The continuation work of the Training School has also been extended to include physical instruction to men in the precincts. Gymnasiums have been installed in a number of precincts, and it is planned to install others wherever room is available for this purpose. The physical instructors from the School visit the precinct gymnasiums and instruct the men in the use of the equipment, wrestling, boxing, etc.

TRAINING RECRUITS

Aside from the cost of minor alterations in the rooms, the expense of providing the gymnasiums and equipment has been borne by the men themselves. In a few instances, this expense has been undertaken by citizens or organizations in the precinct.

SANITARY CONDITION OF STATION HOUSES

A great deal of attention has been given to the improvement of the sanitary condition of the station-houses. The Surgeons of the Department have made very thorough and exhaustive inspections of the conditions. Some of the bad conditions can be remedied only by extensive alterations or by the erection of new buildings. Many of the conditions requiring smaller expenditure have been remedied during the year, or are provided for in plans for repair work during 1915. Other conditions which can be remedied without expenditure have been receiving the special attention of administrative officials. Commanding Officers have been given particular instructions concerning the care of the buildings, and it is gratifying to report that there has been a marked improvement in this respect.

CHANGES IN PATROL

Decreases in Fixed Posts :

During the year a number of changes have been made in the uniformed patrol service. A survey of the assignment and distribution of the uniformed force disclosed the fact that relatively some sections had too many patrolmen and other sections too few. This faulty distribution was due largely to the development of the fixed-post system of patrol. In order to bring about a distribution of the force which would be equitable to all sections of the city, it was necessary to decrease the number of fixed posts, leaving only those where the special local conditions seemed to require this character of service.

An attempt also was made during the year to work out systems of patrol which would meet the requirements of police service under the varying conditions existing in the different sections of the city.

Patrol in Suburban Precincts :

In some of the suburban precincts a system of bicycle patrol has been installed. In these precincts police telephone booths are located at the principal street or road intersections. These booths are in reality sub-stations. A Patrolman is stationed at the booth during all tours of duty, and the booth is connected with the police station by a direct police telephone line, and is also connected with the local telephone exchange.

The patrol service in these precincts is entirely on bicycles and motorcycles, the Patrolmen being provided with bicycles and the Sergeants and other superior officers with motorcycles. The Patrolmen alternate on patrol duty and duty at the booth. In addition to reporting from the booth, while on patrol they call up the station-house at frequent intervals from the police signal-boxes.

Bulletins have been issued to all residents in these precincts advising them how to get a policeman quickly, either by calling the nearest booth or by calling the precinct, from which a message is transmitted to the officer in the booth, instructing him to give attention to the matter which the citizen has reported. In those precincts having a large area and a comparatively small population, this plan of establishing sub-stations in the booths at convenient locations with the more rapid patrol on bicycles and motorcycles, gives better police service than the system of regular patrol, in which all men were out on patrol, but with posts so large that it was almost impossible to locate a police officer in case of an emergency call. It is planned to extend the system to a number of precincts during 1915.

Flash-light Call System :

In the congested sections of the city, where there are many and frequent calls for the services of a Patrolman, one of the problems in police management has been the difficulty of reaching a Patrolman quickly after he has left the station-house for patrol duty.

All station-houses in the city are connected with each other and with Headquarters by means of a special telephone system. This system, however, has not in the past provided any means by which the men on post could be reached, nor was it possible for a citizen to find a policeman immediately, in an emergency.

In an attempt to solve the problem, the fixed-post system was adopted, an excellent plan in many respects, but wasteful of men. In a further attempt to solve this problem, a system of flash-light signals was put in operation in the Twenty-third Precinct during the year.

A HURRY CALL IN AN OUTLYING DISTRICT

POLICE DEPARTMENT

By this system it is possible to keep in constant touch with the Patrolman on post without requiring him to remain fixed at a definite location. The precinct is divided into a number of flash-light zones; the patrol posts on which the signal lamps are located are arranged so that Patrolmen are always in direct view of the signal lamp. The desk officer in the precinct, by pressing the button turns on the current which flashes the light, attracting the attention of the officer.

A citizen's push-button is also provided in the box on the lamp-post, to which the signal lamp is attached. By pressing this button the citizen can also call the Patrolman without communicating with the station-house.

The lamp in use has a specially designed lens, which throws a light of sufficient brilliancy to attract attention even on a bright day at a distance of about 700 feet to 1000 feet.

The experiments with the flash-light system have proved so satisfactory that it is the intention during the year 1915 to extend it to a number of other precincts.

Signal-box Posts :

In a number of precincts in which the fixed-post was formerly in effect, the post known as a signal-box post has been established.

In this system the Patrolman is assigned to a post on a block on which a police signal-box is located. By means of a bell attached to the box it is possible to call the Patrolman and to give him instructions concerning any police service to be rendered at locations close to his post.

This system is used only in busy precincts where there are a great many calls for police service, and it is possible in most cases to reach a Patrolman in less than five minutes from the time a call is made to Police Headquarters or to any station-house.

As this system becomes known to the residents of the precinct, it fills the need met by the establishment of the fixed posts, in that it is known where a Patrolman can be found, and at the same time the Patrolman can be reached quickly by the desk officer in the station-house.

TELEPHONE SERVICE

The installation and effective development of new patrol systems as described in the foregoing paragraphs is dependent primarily upon prompt communication. This development, therefore, has very materially increased the telephone service required in the Department.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE

In addition to the increase due to these causes, the regular service has shown an increase of almost 25%: the number of telephone connections on police lines during the year being 5,890,195 as compared with 4,397,100 in 1913.

Through the courtesy of the New York Telephone Company, it was possible to have a thorough examination made of the telephone plant and traffic conditions in the service by expert telephone engineers. It was found that an increase in the operating force and the public telephone exchange lines was imperative in order to give the public prompt service and to provide the service which would adequately meet the emergency requirements of police work. Nineteen public exchange lines were added and the operating and supervising force was increased by six men.

An examination of the plan disclosed the necessity for extensive replacements and extensions. The underground cables in Manhattan were laid before consolidation of the five boroughs into the Greater City, and at that time were ample to meet the demands of the service in Manhattan and The Bronx for a considerable period. The increase in telephone traffic due to the growth of the city and to consolidation has made it necessary to use a party line system in many places and to lease lines to make up for the deficiency in our own plant.

It is hoped that funds may be obtained during the year 1915 to make the necessary improvements in the telephone plant and equipment.

DEPARTMENT PROPERTY

Seven new police stations, started during the years 1911 and 1912, have been completed during the year. Five of these were occupied during the latter part of 1913, but were not finally completed until the early months of 1914.

Plans have been prepared and contracts are about to be advertised for the erection of a new building for the Sixty-first Precinct.

Extensive repairs have been undertaken during the year in seven station-houses. When this work is completed these buildings will be practically equal in convenience, sanitary arrangements, etc., to those of recent construction.

Plans are now being prepared for alterations and improvements to a number of buildings for which funds were provided in the appropriation for 1915.

MATERIAL NEEDS OF THE DEPARTMENT

For a number of years adequate provision has not been made for the erection of police stations to replace rented property and to replace those which are no longer suitable or fit for use. Corporate Stock funds should be provided for the erection of nineteen new station-houses, at a total cost, including sites, of approximately, $2,150,000, and for additions and alterations to several other buildings at a total cost of approximately, $185,000.

A CITIZEN CALLING FOR POLICE ASSISTANCE BY THE NEW FLASH-LIGHT SYSTEM

POLICE DEPARTMENT

It is extremely important that provision be made in the near future for the extension of the telephone plant to meet the rapidly growing demands, and for the replacement of obsolete and worn-out equipment. $60,000 should be made available for this purpose.

The Department now has in service fourteen motor patrol wagons. This equipment has given splendid service, and both in respect to improved service and economy is so far superior to the horse-drawn equipment that there should be little delay in providing motor equipment throughout for this service. Including two extra emergency vehicles, it is thought that ten motor patrols, at a total cost of about $25,000, would replace the remaining horse-drawn wagons.

Respectfully,

ARTHUR WOODS,

Police Commissioner.

31 arrests were made in cases where girls were induced to leave home for immoral purposes and 28 persons have been convicted of this offense or are awaiting trial.

157 communications were not investigated, as information was too meagre for search.

The Detective Bureau is divided into nine Branch Bureaus and Manhattan Headquarters Squads. The Manhattan Headquarters Squads consist of various squads of detectives doing special work and stationed at Manhattan Headquarters. The Branch Bureau offices are under the command of a Captain or Acting Captain of detectives and are subordinate to the main office, which is commanded by an Inspector who exercises authority throughout the City, and is responsible directly to the Police Commissioner.
